This document aims to help you better assess the sustainability of our products. We consider sustainability to be a complex process that involves bringing together economic, ecological, and social criteria in order to satisfy the needs of current and future generations. Our products aim to contribute to this, while also meeting the requirements placed on them with respect to well-being, quality, and functionality. We regard sustainability as a process of continuous improvement, not one with an end result. With this in mind, we have defined the following core statements for our products:

1. Sto products make a contribution to key aspects of sustainability: e.g. climate protection, building, energy, and resource efficiency, protection and durability, health, and well-being.
2. All of the raw materials used in Sto products fulfil the functions for their application and are optimised with respect to their impact on the environment - based on the latest technology.
3. Sto products are produced in an energy and resource-efficient manner; renewable raw materials are used when appropriate and acceptable from an ecological, economical, and social perspective.
4. Sto evaluates and promotes the potential to dispose of, reuse, and recycle its products, taking technological and economical feasibility into account.

It is not just down to us to determine how the sustainability of our products is interpreted and evaluated - your opinions and decisions also play a role. The information listed here, which has the environment and health as its main focus, aims to assist you in this regard.

The information and data contained in this sustainability data sheet is based on our knowledge and experience. The publication of a new sustainability data sheet invalidates all previous versions.
